Villains Lettering

ART 323A Fall 2025

Research

I researched Shego's design through looking at her character from Kim Possible, paying close attention to her costume, colors, and overall personality. In order to see how the black and green color scheme reflects her confident and powerful personality, I collected photos and fan art. I also looked at how she uses of bright green light effects and discovered references to costumes. To fit her rough and aggressive atmosphere, I tried with numerous font styles, such as bold and slanted ones. Overall, I explored her style and attitude to create an idea that truly fits Shego's tough, stylish character.

Frameworks/Concept Sketches

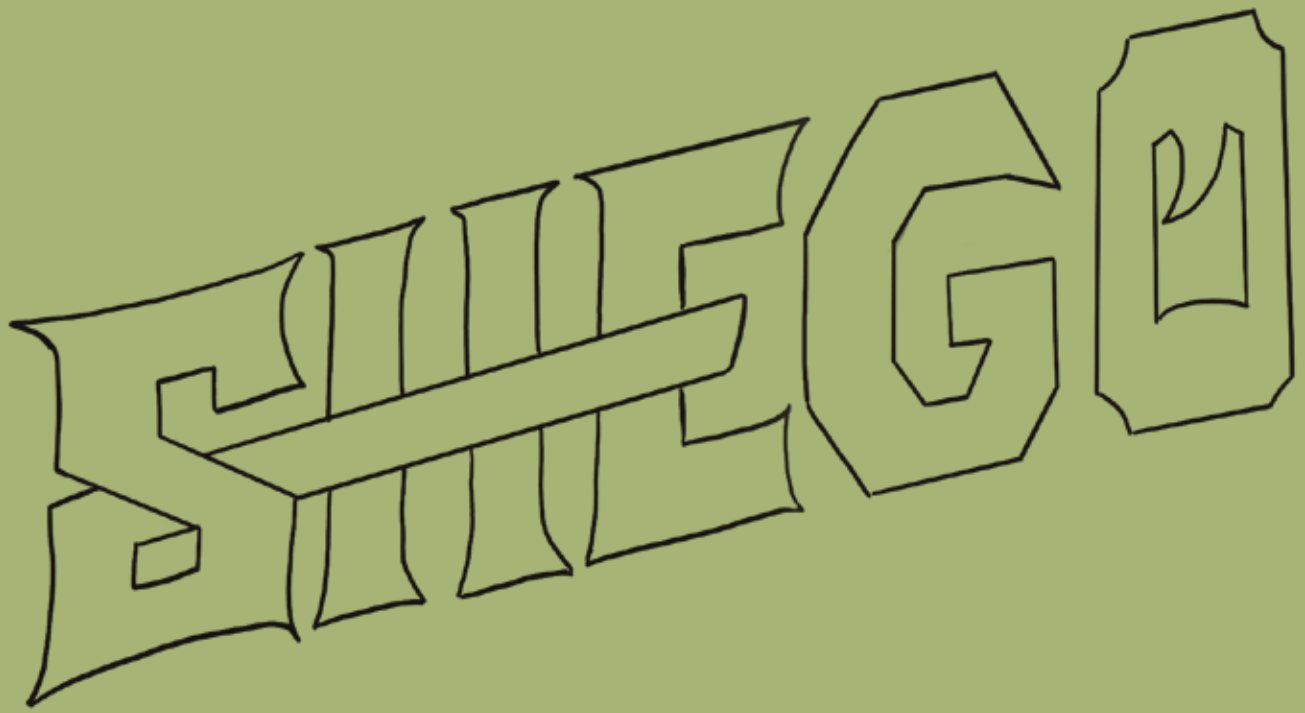

I started my Shego lettering process by drawing soft, curved letters to see how the word may flow. Later, I shifted to creating sharper, angled shapes to better capture Shego's tough and powerful character. I explored with form, balance, and ratios as I developed my drawings on tracing paper. I wanted to include elements from her costume into the lettering design, such as the lines of her belt, her glowing green flame, and the outline of her curly hair. These details made it easier to relate her visual identity to the typeface. The final framework displays a strong, flexible style that is true to Shego's identity.

Final Drawing

I combined all of my previous drawings into a single, solid design for my final Shego lettering drawing. I reflected Shego's strong and audacious personality by using aggressive, geometric elements. The sharp edges represent her strength and confidence, while the tall, angled construction provides movement and vitality. I also added elements that were influenced by her attire and abilities, such as the belt form that passes through the center, the curved edges that mimic her hair, and the smooth alignment that alludes to her green plasma energy. All of the visual components that make Shego remarkable are combined in this final version to produce an effective and dynamic final design.
